CLOSES SALOON AFTER ORDER FROM COMMISSIONERS COURT

Basil Seward Acts Before Being Notified by Sheriff Bebout of Board's Verdict.

WAS TO BE CLOSED TOMORROW

Commissioners Revoke License And Later Decide to Have Second Street Bar Shut Up.

SEWARD WILL TAKE APPEAL

Order is Result of Hearing Last Thursday—Other Business Before Commissioners.

At four o'clock this afternoon Basil Seward closed the second street saloon of his own accord after hearing of the order made by the county board.

Late this afternoon the county commissioners ordered Sheriff Clata Bebout to close up the saloon of Basil Seward in Second street tomorrow morning, and tonight will be the last hours of grace for the seventh saloon in Rushville. Seward will be notified not to open in the morning.

Today the commissioners convened to return a verdict in the matter of the petition of James E. Naden to revoke the license of Seward. They were in secret session a short while and then announced they would revoke the license on the strength of the evidence introduced at the hearing last Thursday.

Attorneys for Seward announced an appeal from the decision of the board would be taken to the circuit court at once. The appeal had not been filed late this afternoon. When the commissioners refused a license to Seward in the first place, he appealed to the circuit court and took a change of venue to Connersville where a special judge from Franklin county granted the license.

In the hearing Tuesday the petitioner attempted to show Seward made false affidavit when he swore he was sole owner. It was endeavored to prove a government license was taken out by Seward & Company. The petitioner alleged Rushville is not entitled to a seventh saloon under the version of the law adopted by the commissioners and that the means provided by the Proctor law to determine population for its own purpose was unconstitutional.

The commissioners will meet again Wednesday, January 31 to award the contracts for eight new highways in Rush county.

Today the board decided to advertise for bids on the Levi Gurley and Jabin D. White bridges on the Hancock-Rush county line. The contracts will be awarded Tuesday, February 6. At the same time the contract for cases to hold new tax duplicates in the treasurer's office will be let.

Today H. G. Hackman was given the contract to furnish supplies for the jail and court house.

FRED BEALE IS CANDIDATE

Would be County Treasurer on Republican Ticket.

Fred R. Beale has announced that he will be a candidate for the nomination of the office of county treasurer, subject to the Republican convention. Mr. Beale is a well known man of this city and for a number of years has been connected with the John S. Beale Plumbing Company. He is prominent in the K. of P. lodge and has a host of friends in the city and county. It will be Mr. Beale's first attempt in the political game.

FEW APPLICATIONS.

A few applicants still come in for assistance from the various sources from which charity is dispensed. The township trustee, however, has not had many calls. It is said there are several cases of immediate need due to the bitter cold and in some instances these have been supplied by individual acts of charity.

BARRED FROM POLITICS

Rural Mail Carriers Are Not Supposed to Work Actively.

Several thousand rural free delivery letter carriers are barred from active participation in politics by a executive order signed by President Taft. It forbids the rural letter carriers from pernicious activity in politics and empowers the civil service commission to dismiss any found to be so engaged. The rural carriers, like all other postoffice employees, are not to be denied the right of political belief and discussion of candidates and issues, but their active participation in political affairs will be stopped. The term "pernicious activity in politics" is an elastic one and in the past has worked on other classes of federal employees as an effectual bar from politics.

WEEK OF PRAYER HAD GOOD OPENING

First Services Last Night at Presbyterian Church Attended by a Large Crowd.

THE REV. J. F. ARVIN PREACHED

The week of prayer had an auspicious opening last night at the First Presbyterian church and a large crowd was present despite the cold weather. The church was warm and no difficulty was had because of the cold.

The Rev. J. F. Arvin, pastor of the First Baptist church, delivered the opening sermon of the union meetings. The Rev. Mr. Arvin took for his subject "How Shall we escape if we Neglect so Great a Salvation," and delivered a very forcible sermon.

Tonight the services will be held in the United Presbyterian church and tomorrow at the First Baptist church. A different minister will preach each night. The services begin each evening at seven-thirty o'clock.

PROF. SCHOLL HAD EXCITING TIME

Flue Burned Out at His Home Early This Morning Creating Bad Scare.

LASTED ONLY FEW MINUTES

Prof. J. H. Scholl had a rather exciting experience early this morning and for a time believed his home would surely catch fire. The trouble was a burning flue, but that was enough to cause alarm. Prof. Scholl was awakened about four o'clock by the roar of flames and on investigating found the flue to be on fire. He telephoned the fire department and explained the trouble. Mr. Scholl was told to wait a few minutes as the flue would soon burn out and there was no great danger as the roof of the house was covered with snow which would prevent it catching fire. The department was ready for the call in case a fire resulted, but it was not necessary to make the run as the soot in the flue soon burned out. Even if no damage resulted, Prof. Scholl does not like the experience of a "near" fire.

Engineers have figured that one waterfall in Iceland can be made to yield 60,000 horse power and another 50,000.

WHAT DOES NEW STATUTE MEAN?

Wondered if Recent City Ordinance is Deeply Laid Plot to Wrest Business From Prosecutor.

BUT THEY ARE ALL DEMOCRATS

State Law Provides Prosecutions Under City Statutes Shall be Conducted by City Attorney.

Rushville attorneys have been smiling up their sleeves since the passage of a vagrancy ordinance by the city council last week. It was termed a "joker" at the time and many are the lawyers who say that it is very aptly named as such.

It appears, to all intents, to be an attempt to prosecute gamblers, but the ordinance is more vague than most gambling laws, and they are vague enough as men who have served as prosecuting attorneys and who have been identified with the work of the State will testify.

Some politicians see in the passage of the ordinance an attempt to wrest business from Dennis O'Neil, Democrat, who is at present prosecuting attorney of the Rush-Shelby judicial district. The ordinance does not provide that the prosecutions be conducted by the city attorney. It's perfectly innocent in that regard.

Nevertheless all charges filed under the ordinance will come under the distinct supervision of the city. There is a State statute which provides that the violation of any city ordinance shall be prosecuted by the city administration.

No, this ordinance does not provide that City Attorney Howard E. Barrett shall act as prosecuting attorney in all cases coming under this ordinance but the State statute makes that point perfectly safe. All arrests under this ordinance will be taken before Mayor B. A. Black and City Attorney Barrett will be the man who carries on the prosecution. The prosecuting attorney will have no jurisdiction in these cases whatever.

The action of the city council, which is Democratic, has caused some Rushville politicians to scratch their heads. They can't get at the meaning of the passage of the ordinance. They confess that they do not know whether it's a scheme to take business away from Prosecutor O'Neil, because he has fallen from grace with the Democratic organization or whether it is really an effort to get more convictions for gambling.

If it is the former, some attorneys point out, they have succeeded very well because it will mean that Dennis O'Neil will not get in on the fees that come with every gambling or similar case which may come within the jurisdiction of this ordinance.

It is practically assured that any arrests which may possibly be made under this ordinance will be arraigned before the mayor and the prosecution will be conducted by the city attorney because the ordinance has been styled the Barrett-McAllister ordinance. So with the legislative, judicial and executive departments of the city administration, all intact there is little doubt but what perfect co-operation will be evident and the wheels of the law will work just like if they were greased with lard.

If it is the latter case—because the city administration wants more convictions in gambling and other cases which may come under the jurisdiction of the new ordinance—the city may or may not have succeeded.

Some local men are disposed to believe the Democratic administration has grown disgusted with the methods used by Dennis O'Neil, and they have decided to take matters into their own hands.

OBJECT IS TO PREVENT FIRES

Firemen Would Have Flues in Good Condition and There Will be Less Danger.

CALLED TO INSPECT MANY

This Precaution is Necessary as City is Not Prepared to Fight Fire—Water Low.

Rushville people naturally are not cowards, but they are afraid of fires, especially at this season of the year when heavy losses from fires are very common. The Aultman fire last Friday evening taught most everybody in Rushville a lesson. It reminded them that it is possible for a flue to get too hot and be ignited. This is the cause of most winter fires and is one topic to which particular attention should be given at this season.

After the suborn blaze at the Aultman home last Friday when the firemen experienced great difficulty in fighting it, it was realized that some effort should be made to impress on the people the necessity of taking precaution against the recurrence of such a costly and nasty blaze.

So the following day the fire chief, Thomas Hughes, and his assistant, William Glaska, issued a warning through the newspapers, urging all people to inspect their flues. They pointed out that most flues had been built with the expectation of gas being burned and in many cases they are not strong enough to withstand the heat that coal makes.

The firemen pointed out that it is a very easy thing for the flues to catch fire but it was another matter to put the fire out. The chief and his assistant were very anxious that all flues be inspected, so as to avoid, by taking necessary precaution, a fire similar to the one Friday night. In fact the fire chief and his assistant were so anxious that all flues be examined that they notified the Rushville public they would inspect flues free of charge.

The result is that the warning has had its effect. Rushville residents have been calling at central fire station much of the time since the warning Saturday night, asking that the fire chief or his assistant come and take a look at the flues in their house. They made a poor bargain, it seems, when they agreed to inspect flues, because it seems that most householders have taken the warning to heart and are about as anxious as the firemen that their house should not catch on fire just now.

Fire Chief Hughes, Assistant Glaska and Will Moffett were busy yesterday answering calls to inspect flues. They urge that people who can inspect the flues of their own homes, do so but if they know nothing about the condition in which they should be, they are urged to notify central fire station.

It is apparent that the warning is very timely as indications are the cold snap is here to remain for some time. With the temperature hovering about zero people will surely have hot coal fires, those that are fortunate to have a coal stove and the flues will get hot and there will still be danger of a fire.

It is requested especially that Rushville people heed this warning because the city is not in condition to fight fires due to the water pressure. It is so low that it is necessary to turn the water out of the mains at night so the pumps may get some little water in the reservoir to be used in case of a fire.

Four p. m. is the rainiest hour of the whole twenty-four.

QUAILS STARVE AND FREEZE

Hundreds Perish in Cold—Farmers Are Urged to Feed Them.

The present cold weather season has played havoc with the quail of the county and hundreds of the little game birds are said to have perished from cold and starvation. The quail are not as hardy as some birds and consequently are easy victims of zero weather. In past years many farmers have saved the birds by feeding them. This should be repeated this year and the little animals assisted in tiding over the low temperature.

Connersville and New Castle Papers Carrying Daily Essays on Conserving of City Water.

POKED FUN AT RUSHVILLE

New Castle and Connersville has had some fun at the expense of Rushville in recent months over the water question. Their funny men have been concocting funny phrases about the local situation. Now they are getting their just deserts. New Castle and Connersville are both short on water and several treatises and essays have been written in the newspapers of the two cities on the conserving of the city water supply.

But seriously, now, Connersville and New Castle are up against same proposition Rushville has had to deal with in former winters and which it is confronting right now. In order to avoid freezing pipes householders allow their faucets to run all night and in this manner many thousands of gallons of water are wasted each night. Connersville and New Castle papers are urging water patrons not to waste water for fear the supply will get so low there will be grave danger in case of a fire.

The same condition exists in Rushville right now. The water is so low that scarcely any pressure can be maintained during the day and it is necessary to shut the water out of the mains to keep up the supply during the day. The fire Friday night assisted also in reducing the water level in the reservoir.

Not That Rush County Boy Looks The Part But It's His Name Again.

HE'S TAKEN FOR THE "PUG" Receives Mail Meant For "White Man's Hope"—Carl's a Fan Since They Have Met.

Mention was made in the Daily Republican last summer, while Carl Morris, the New York baritone soloist was here on his summer vacation, how his name had been confused often with that of Carl Morris, the Oklahoma giant, who is dubbed the "white man's hope" and who is being pushed forward as the only white man who can win the laurels from Jack Johnson the heavyweight champion of the world.

At that time Carl was receiving much of the pugilist's mail and he

No Relief From Zero Weather Promised by the Weather Man—Drop Today.

SNOW MAY FALL TOMORROW

Upward Trend of Temperature Yesterday is Checked by Cold Blast—Two Below, Lowest.

The low temperature is to continue indefinitely, according to the weather bureau. There is little hope for relief from the biting wind and lowering temperature given out by the official forecaster.

Fair weather is to continue over tonight, the prediction is, and it will be followed tomorrow with unsettled weather conditions. It is quite probable that this section of Indiana will be visited with more snow. It is impossible to tell, according to the forecast, whether the mercury will be flirting with sixteen below zero again soon.

The good start which the temperature had yesterday toward a higher mark was checked by another cold blast which hit this section of Indiana yesterday afternoon and evening. The thermometer reached its highest mark yesterday at noon when it was sixteen above. The fall began then and continued until last midnight when the temperature was recorded at three degrees below at several points in the city.

This morning early the mercury stood at two below zero and yesterday morning at the same time it was fifteen above zero. The temperature strived heroically this morning to rise above the zero mark and it finally succeeded about nine o'clock in going one above the mark. It arose gradually until this afternoon and finally reached ten above. Then it began to descend gradually and indications are that it will fall as low tonight, if not lower, than it did last night. A biting wind made today very disagreeable though the sun shone brightly.

HOUSEWIVES BAKE BREAD AND GET MEALS ON HARD COAL BURNERS

Exasperating is Word Since Cold Wave Waved Over Rushville and Caused Gas Shortage.

MANY HUMOROUS SITUATIONS

Householder, in Quest of Gas Meter, Can't Find It—To Locate it Next Summer.

There is a gas shortage in Rushville. Of that every householder who has the misfortune not to have a hard coal burner or a soft coal hot blast is familiar. In fact there has been a shortage of the natural gas supply since last Friday when the present cold wave waved over Rushville.

The gas shortage has not been without its humorous features. Although it has worked hardships and caused great inconvenience in many homes which are laughable, even to the people who have been implicated and who have suffered the most.

Many stories are rife of the ruses housewives have adopted to get their share of the gas. They have resorted to almost any tactics to get some of the gas when some other patron is not looking. It really could not be charged up in the petit larceny column because in reality the housewives' husbands pay for all the gas which makes the meter click, but then—

Some housewives have arisen at the midnight hour—or thereabout—just to get some of the gas that rightfully belongs to her neighbor the next morning. She has no spirit of "malice aforethought, or evil intent" but she wants the gas, and you know when a woman wants anything she will generally go to most any end to get it, even arise at midnight in the bitter cold.

Tales are recited of women—grandmothers, daughters, young married women and all—who have got out of the "hay" while the town clock tolled the hour of twelve. They planned to meet him at Madison Square Garden in New York shortly after his return (not in the ring, however.) And it seems that the Rush county boy who has gained fame as a soloist in New York, is still having trouble with his name, as is evident from the following which appeared in the New York Sunday Herald:

If it weren't that he would have to start all over in the fame building career he began in New York three years ago Carl Morris, of No. 357 West Fifty-fifth street, said yesterday he would go into court forthwith praying to have his name changed or at least revised.

No, he is not the "white hope" pugilist who is working his way up toward a hopeful set-to with one "Jack" Johnson. There are many folks who think so, and that is what has caused him no end of trouble and trying hours. That same fact is likewise the reason he considers forsaking the name of his fathers.

Fact is, Carl Morris, of No. 357 West Fifty-fifth street, is a baritone

Managers Favor Hobbles And They Will Not Be Ruled Out

Now that the county fair managers of Indiana have joined with the Ohio managers of similar fair associations in protesting against the anti-hobble rule of the American and National Trotting Associations the chances are more than even that the rule will be amended in some way. While the general feeling is that hobbles should be discarded, no manager of a half-mile track cares to take a chance on enforcing the rule, feeling that the racing classes will not fill. Last year there was quite a number of fairs where the entries were very light. This was due to the fact that until a clearing house of some kind is established, trainers and owners will never know where the greatest competition will exist.

A fair that has an exceedingly heavy entry one year is apt to have a light one the following year. With large fields of starters over a half-mile track it is pretty hard to get to the front if one happens to draw a position in the second and sometimes third tier. Then, with anywhere from ten to sixteen or eighteen starters, the chances of winning even a part of the purse is small. The result is that the following year the owner seeks some place where the number of starters was small the year previous. He keeps the fact secret and is surprised when the entries are printed to find that a large number of competitors have done the same thing. They are all there, while the fair that was overrun with horses the year previous finds it hard work to fill its races.

The managers who the entries were light are fearful that if the hobble rule is enforced that they will have even smaller fields in the future. As it costs 5 per cent of the purse to enter a horse in a race and 10 per cent is deducted from the four money winners, it is natural that the secretaries should want to obtain a large number of entries in order to pay the purse. The result is, in many instances, that the horse men race for their own money, but that is their affair, and not that of the managers.

When the anti-hobble rule was passed several years ago it was thought that by making it progressive, applying first to 2-year-olds, then 3, 4 and 5-year olds, that the hobbles could be abolished with no financial loss to horse owners and trainers. It was felt that the latter would educate their colts to go without the unsightly double harness, but there is a feeling among the half-mile track secretaries that such will not be the case. It often takes infinite patience to teach a colt to pace without the use of the straps, and both owners and trainers do not like to waste time.

The quickest way to get to the races is to throw the double harness on the colt and secure a big long whip. Colt and trainer get to the races in a few weeks when it might take months without the speed accelerators. Of course, accidents happen. The straps break, the horse gets to running and gets tangled up in the rigging, with the result that there is a crash and a trainer with a broken neck or arm, and sometimes a disabled horse. That seems to be a part of the game and the regular hobbled pacing horse driver does not seem to mind. Many of the drivers are bitterly opposed to the hobbles, especially the Grand Circuit drivers, but "out in the brushes" it is not uncommon to see 80 per cent. of the pacers wearing the Indiana pajamas. So long as there are trainers and owners who insist on using the dangerous speed-makers there will be secretaries who will hang up purses for the hoppers.

The Indiana fair managers have declared in favor of them and have appointed a committee to confer with the Ohio managers and then go before the American Trotting Association and ask for the repeal of the rule. A few were in favor of starting a new governing association in opposition to the two now in existence. Others pointed out that there are enough parent associations and that it would be much better to ask the existing ones to carry out the wishes of the individual associations, pointing out that the American and National are composed of the various individual racing and fair associations and that if a majority of the latter go together it would be an easy matter to secure any changes desired. Now that Indiana and Ohio have spoken it only remains for similar associations in other States to take action and the anti-hobble rule will be a thing of the past. On the other hand if these two states are alone in their desire, why the rule will stick.

Some day it will be possible to legislate the hobbles out of existence, but before that day comes, a lot of educational work will have to be done. It will be better for the more advanced breeders to get rid of the straps, for their horses will be more valuable, especially as a large number of what would be hopped pacers will be taught to trot and trotters sell for more money than pacers, as the purses for the diagonal gaited horses are larger than for the lateral gaited ones.

With the bulk of money of all the great futurities going to the trotters, it would seem as if the most of the colts would be educated as trotters, so as to get the big money, but such is not the case. Rather than take the trouble of balancing a colt so it can trot, many owners wait until its 4-year-old form, slap on the straps and go out for the purses offered for aged horses, and when it comes to purse races exclusively the money is as large for pacers as for trotters. Many breeders are fearful that if steps are not taken pretty soon, there will be too many pacers raised and that the breed of trotters will deteriorate. As it is now, full brothers and sisters to noted trotters are often pacers, and the rich, men who breed purely for fun would like to see a breed or family established that would produce nothing but trotters.

It might not be a bad plan to give the rule a trial of another year, as it applies merely to 4-year-olds and under in 1912, but the fair managers are so anxious that it is more than probable that the rule will be changed or wiped out within a few weeks, as the rules committee of the state fair and exhibition meets in Chicago on Jan. 15, and will report to the American Trotting Association on the following day. That the half-mile track associations are growing in importance is evident from the fact that two of the large futurities will in the future have a portion of the purse laid aside for colts to race for over the twice arounds. This part of the purse can not be raced for by colts that start in the other divisions on the mile track. This undoubtedly will prove to be a popular feature, for there is a very large number of trainers who race exclusively on the small tracks and many of them have 3-year-olds in their strings.

JAMES ROLPH

"World's Fair" Mayor of San Francisco Takes His Seat.

San Francisco, Jan. 9.—James Rolph jr., the "world's fair mayor," whose task it will be to prepare this city for the Panama-Pacific International exposition in 1915, has taken his office, relieving P. H. McCarthy, the labor leader.

BIG MINE STRIKE

It Now Seems Probable That British Collieries Will Be Closed.

London, Jan. 9.—Strike ballots were distributed among the coal miners last night with the expectation that the result of the vote, which is to be announced Jan. 18, will show a determination on the part of the men to quit work. This feeling is clouding trade and is causing a general depression. It is reported that the admiralty office is so sure that a strike will materialize that they have chartered a number of steamers with a view to replenishing the coal supply of the naval stations all over the world before the strike can take place on March 1. This is the earliest date for which it can be fixed.

WORK MUST BE DONE

ESSENTIAL POINT FOR EMPLOYEE TO CONSIDER.

Interests of the Firm Can Never Be Otherwise Than Identical With Your Own.

Conversations with fellow employees should not be held in an office during business hours, unless the topics under discussion are of a nature relative to the firm's interests. Make the firm's interests your own. Remember the habit of foolish gossip must be guarded against.

The girl who takes a position in an office must be regular, punctual, and self-reliant. She must make up her mind that there is work commanding her attention. Because she has been to a party the night before is no excuse for her to prolong the festive occasion another day.

Have your evenings of pleasure, but let them stop there, and be ready for your desk in the morning. If you find that you need a little more sleep, your employer will grant you an extra hour or so if you ask him for it, but don't take his time of your own accord. Remember during business hours your time is his, and not your own.

If you are expected to be at your desk at a certain time, don't come straggling in at any hour you see fit. An occasional tardiness will be excused, but continual lateness never. When you are late, you hold up the work of the office, for your employer must needs wait until you come to give you your work for the day.

Try always to finish the day's work and not leave over until the next day the things that could be finished if you spend an extra half hour. Not to finish each day's work is the way to become snowed under entirely. What if you do have to stay a little later? Your employer will appreciate the fact that you are always ready to do your work.

Keeping your work well in hand is the only prevention of a nervous breakdown. It is also the only way to do work well. To know that you are the master, and not to let your work master you is the foundation of self-confidence. Confidence in your own powers is a valuable asset. Learn to know your own ability, and then set to work with an alert mind, ready and willing for any task.

With the combined qualities of confidence, the feeling, "I will try and will do my best," and with a neat appearance and a reserved, dignified manner, you cannot fail.

HE LENDS MONEY ON ANIMALS

Dr. Martin Potter Takes Strange Pledges—How One of Them Buncoed Him.

Not even the author of the "Club of Strange Trades" conceived of an odder means of livelihood than that of Dr. Martin Potter, says the New York correspondent of the Cincinnati Times-Star. He runs an animal pawnshop. If you have a lion that you don't need as badly as you need the money, or want to soak a trained bear for a few weeks, or put up an elephant until you hear from home, go around to Dr. Potter. He'll loan you the money against your live stock and he will not charge you any interest. But you'll have to pay the board of your pledge. "I just drifted into the business," said Dr. Potter. "I started out to furnish trained animals to shows. I've rented everything to showmen from a troupe of thoroughbred horses to a red eyed Numidian lion. By and by I found that I had to lend money now and then to my patrons and take their stock in pledge. It was a necessity of the business, but now I like it."

His stables contain elephants and camels—if you're a regular showman you'll say cam-u-el—and monkeys and a dozen sorts of dogs and all varieties of the cat tribe and the deuce knows what. And his proudest boast is that he was never stuck but once. "Fellow borrowed $20 from me on a trick dog," said he. "Finest dog I ever saw. I'd have loaned $100 on him as easy. But I wasn't shown all that dog's tricks by his owner. That night I found that he had been trained to unlatch the door and get out—and his owner had not trained him to come back."

WHAT HORSE-POWER MEANS

Example of Great Liner's Turbine Engines Given to Explain the Common Phrase.

In connection with steamship propulsion the average man is apt to speak very glibly of so many hundred or thousand horse-power. But it is extremely doubtful if one person in a hundred really has a due appreciation of what the phrase actually means. On this point some very interesting remarks were made by John Heck, the Glasgow engineer surveyor.

He said that, calculating the strength of twelve men to be equal to one horse-power, it would require 840,000 men to produce as much energy as the 70,000 horse-power developed by the turbine machinery of the express Cunarder Lusitania. Then if the men were to work on the eight hour day system those figures would give a total of 2,520,000, that being the number of men whose strength would be necessary to drive the vessel across the Atlantic ocean. So it would take all the men in Scotland to supply the energy produced all the day round by the wonderful turbine machinery of this great ship.—Railway and Locomotive Engineer.

These Gentlemen Arabs.

The Arab vices and virtues (for they have both) are drawn from the desert. They are the handsomest men in the world, these Arabs; but they are not the cleanest. In reverent demeanor and tactful courtesy they surpass the most cultured gentlemen of Europe; but they are notorious thieves.

Their hospitality is proverbial. For three days the Arab host will protect one who has eaten bread and salt in his tent, even to dying in defense of his guest. When the time limit of the salt brotherhood has expired the host will feel quite free to rob the former guest on his own account. Ordinarily the Arab lives on Bread and milk, or bread and cheese. If a guest arrives he will insist upon slaughtering the choicest animal in his flock. If there is no food at all, as frequently happens, the Arab starves for awhile.—From "The Real Palestine of Today," by Lewis Gaston Leary.

Style in Mourning.

"Spectacular mourning is not so popular as it was some years ago," said the manager of a city department store in answer to an inquiry on that subject. "There is still a large business done in all kinds of mourning goods, but either the somber period has grown shorter or many bereaved persons prefer not to be conspicuous because of their sorrows, for the sale of mourning goods has fallen off. In the stationery department there seems to be no change—in fact, the demand for black bordered cards and writing paper has increased." To illustrate the quality of some "show mourning" he said: "At a stationery establishment a short time ago a woman in deepest black asked to see samples of dinner dance cards. She selected one and ordered one hundred to be done on black bordered cards, compromising with her conscience by suggesting that the border be not too heavy."

Impossibility.

"Does your wife ever attend your lectures?"

"Of course not, that would never do."

"Why not?"

"Could any wife sit and hear her husband talk for two hours without interrupting him?"

An Inquiry.

"Pop, when the rain comes down in sheets—"

"Yes, son?"

"Does it cover the bed of the street?"

The federal government has filed a petition in the United States court at Macon, Ga., asking for the dissolution of the American Naval Stores company or the "turpentine trust," on the ground that it is a monopoly in restraint of trade.

SIR WALTER RALEIGH'S PIPE

It is said that this curious pipe belonged to Sir Walter Raleigh, who first introduced tobacco smoking in England, and that he smoked it on the scaffold just before his execution, handing it as a last gift to Bishop Andrews. It was exhibited, with this account of its history, by the Archaeological society of England in the sixties, with the further statement that it is made of maple wood from Virginia, the colony which Sir Walter Raleigh founded. The bowl of the pipe has a cap, and a string of beads is attached to the stem, which is also furnished with a whistle. The pipe is carved with dogs' heads and the faces of Indians.

REAL FAMILY TREE

San Francisco has a complete genealogy of the Haida tribe of Indians of the Charlotte island, off the coast of British Columbia, as carved on a huge totem pole by the Indians themselves. This totem pole, a gift to the University of California by Mrs. Phebe Apperson Hearst, has been placed in position in front of the afflicted colleges overlooking Golden Gate park. The Haida totem pole is 40 feet high and 3 1/2 feet through at the base. It is believed that the pole will last for ages. Many who were present at the ceremony admired the woodcarver's art as shown on the totem pole.

COMB OF PAPER.

The paper comb is a novelty which has made its appearance. It is made of smooth finished, hard cardboard. The teeth are coarse and far apart, but it is quite useful for combing the hair. The paper comb is one to be used once and then thrown away. It is designed for travelers, for use in public baths, and in various other places where now might be found combs kept for common use; in such places these combs might be furnished by the establishment free. It is not costly, the paper comb, put up in a waxed paper holder, being sold at retail at one cent.

Woman Her Home, Her Interests.

From Curly Locks.
What is a girl to say when told she is pretty? After a dance, should the lady thank the gentleman or the gentleman the lady?—Curly Locks.

It is a man's privilege to thank the lady for the dance she has granted him. When any one is kind enough to say you are pretty, just say, "Thank you, it is very nice to hear pleasant things," or something like that.

Card Etiquette.
Is it necessary to leave cards every time I make a formal call? When calling with my husband, which one has charge of the cards, or do we each take care of our own?—Monticello.

In making a formal call it is always necessary to leave cards whether the persons are home or not. It is customary for the wife to carry the cards and leave them at the proper time when paying visits together.

Sending "Congratulations."
I wish you would tell me at what time, and to whom, to send a telegram of congratulations. The groom-elect I know very well, but the bride-elect not at all.—Anne R.

The congratulatory telegram should be addressed to the bridegroom and timed so as to reach him about the hour the ceremony is to take place. Have it get there a bit early rather than too late.

An Afternoon Gathering.
Please suggest some way of entertaining twelve or thirteen couples during the afternoon. Would you serve any kind of refreshments?—M. L. R.

I heard recently of a very jolly "travel party." Each lady was asked to tell her most interesting experiences in travel; each one was also asked to wear or bring an especially prized object obtained while traveling. The result was a most fascinating time. Regarding the refreshments, I hardly know what you mean by "most any kind." Don't make the mistake of having too much; a delicious cold salad with sandwiches, nuts, glazed fruits, coffee and chocolate is sufficient, or an ice with a variety of small cakes.

For a Christmas Present.
I am a girl, seventeen. Would it be proper for me to give a Christmas present to a man very much my senior? He gave me a little gift last Xmas and we are very good friends. If you think so, please tell me what would be suitable.—"Brown Eyes."

Certainly, remember your friend with a Christmas gift, and I think if you could make him something that it would be nice. If you can embroider, make him a half-dozen handkerchiefs or "clock" a couple of pairs of silk hose.

For Wedding Refreshments.
Will you please help me about refreshments? The hour for wedding ceremony will probably be seven in the evening, or earlier. We live in the country and most of the guests come some distance and we wish to give them quite a supper. Most of them will leave at nine o'clock that night.—Decatur.

At this season of the year I should serve oyster or chicken patties with green French peas, olives, salted nuts, a salad (preferably of chicken or sweetbread if the oysters are served), hot rolls or tiny buttered biscuits with two kinds of sandwiches, coffee, ice cream, cakes and confectionery.

Animal Blind Man's Buff.
I find many versions of old-time games; for instance, this way of playing our old favorite "Blind Man's Buff." Seat the children in a circle, or they may stand. The leader is chosen by the time honored custom known as "counting out," blind-folded and placed in the middle. He is given a cane; he then walks around the circle, stops and points the cane, the one it touches or comes closest to must repeat in a disguised tone the noise made by either a cat, dog, cow or horse. He may repeat the sound three times. If the blind man cannot guess, he must try some one else; if he names the right child, that one takes the place of the leader.

MADAME MERRI.

tary precaution was taken against typhoid, and 12,801 men were inoculated against typhoid fever. There was only one case and no deaths. Please compare this with the Jacksonville statistics of 10,759 men and 4,422 cases and 248 deaths. The one case among the vaccinated at San Antonio was a sergeant who refused the full three doses of vaccine necessary for complete protection and his attack was very mild. During the time the soldiers were at San Antonio there were 49 cases among the citizens of the city with 19 deaths. It is a pity that some people are so given to crying out "health crank," when the hygienists speak for health and life.

"I think PARISIAN SAGE is good as a hair grower. It is good to rid the hair of dandruff and stop the hair from falling out. It is a beautifier as well as a scalp cleaner. I intend to keep it in the house, I know it helped my head."—Hannah Harkness, Marshalltown, Iowa.

URGES PASSAGE OF RIGID SPITTING LAW

Dr. W. F. King Says Fault Lies in Fact it is Nobody's Special Business to Enforce Them.

PREPARES MODEL ORDINANCE.

Dr. W. F. King, assistant secretary of the State board of health, declaring that the fault of most of the anti-spitting ordinances of the State lies in the fact that it is not made the particular business of any person to enforce them, has prepared to publish in the forthcoming annual report of the board a model ordinance making it the specific duty of any peace officer to arrest persons violating the ordinance.

"Now it seems to be nobody's business who spits anywhere," said Dr. King. "I would like to have it so a policeman seeing any one spitting on a sidewalk would be required to arrest the offender at once, just as he is required to arrest a man he sees strike another."

The model ordinance also contains considerable material regulating the placing of cuspidors in public places, together with their care. It proposes to increase the powers of local health officers concerning the offense, which Dr. King says is growing as a nuisance.

TUBERCULOSIS IS COSTLY.

To show that tuberculosis is very expensive, Dr. J. N. Hurty, secretary of the State board of health has sent out the following notice:

Suppose a man, father of a family of three children, and earning $3.00 a day, is taken sick with tuberculosis. What would it cost each person in the state to have prevented him from ever having had the disease? Remember, consumption is always preventable. Here are a few of the leading items of expense to him in getting cured.

Six months treatment in sanatorium for one year. $ 500 00
Loss of wages for one year at $3.00 per day. $64 00

Total $1364 00
Now what would have been the man's share in the prevention of tuberculosis?

An ounce of prevention, the proper care of the body. $ 00 00
A study of the subject of right living, a pamphlet on tuberculosis 0 00
The purchase of 100 Red Cross Seals as his share in prevention. 1 00

Total $1 00
Question:—How much did the man lose?

New Explosive the Most Powerful.
The United States government has sole control of Hudson Maxim's new explosive, which is considered the most destructive possessed by any nation. The value of this new explosive, we are told, lies in the fact that it will send a projectile through any armor now in use. Mr. Maxim says he believes the American government is better prepared than any other for the destruction of warships of any enemy with high explosive projectiles.

Half True, Anyway.
Dentist—I am sorry to say, Mr. Dorkins, there's a cavity also in that upper bicuspid.
Man in Chair—Go head and fill it, doctor; I believe the latter part of your statement.

PEACE PROSPECT IN MINE FIELDS

Coal Operators Meet With Representatives of Miners.

TWO STATES HOLDING ALOOF

Western Pennsylvania and Ohio Still Refuse to Join Movement Looking to Revival of Old Four-State Joint Wage Conference, and It Is Predicted That This Refusal Will Be Carried Into Coming Joint Conference.

Indianapolis, January 9.—In its bearing on the possibilities of the future in the coal mining industry, not only of those two states, but of the other coal fields as well, the meeting of bituminous coal miners and operators of Indiana and Illinois, which was held here, although perfunctory, nevertheless was important. The bituminous operators of Ohio and western Pennsylvania also had been invited to attend this meeting, but they declined and none was present from those fields.

This meeting was a continuation of an informal meeting held in Chicago Dec. 14, called by John P. White, president of the United Mine Workers, who invited the operators of the old central competitive field to meet with the representatives of the miners of those states with a view to re-establishing the four-state joint wage conference.

Some are of the opinion that the three-state joint wage scale conference which exists now will be continued, and that Illinois will take care of itself. On the other hand, there are others who believe that unless the operators of the four great bituminous states agree to come into conference there will be no settlement. This controversy applies only to the bituminous mine operators and miners. The anthracite scale is a separate matter.

It is understood that the bituminous miners this year will ask for another increase in the price of mining, though the exact figures of their demand have not been made public. This will be taken up at the convention, which opens here on Jan. 16. The miners will at that time fix their mining wage scale and this will be submitted to the operators at the joint conference which will be held as soon as the demands are formulated.

MARTIN OUT AGAIN

Alleged Burglar Released on Bond Signed by Father

Greenfield, Ind., Jan. 9.—After spending nearly eighteen months in jail, Cordia Martin has been released from the Hancock county jail under bonds of $500, signed by his father.

Martin was arrested as a suspect in a robbery case here two years ago and escaped from jail before the grand jury had acted on his case. He was captured and brought back to jail, but the grand jury failed to indict him and he was released. He was arrested in connection with the robbery of the New Palestine bank a few days later and tried and found guilty in the Marion circuit court. The supreme court held that the trial was illegal as the offense occurred in Hancock county, and Martin was brought here from the state prison to await a second trial. He was indicted by the grand jury and entered a plea of not guilty to the indictment.

WANTED BY UNCLE SAM

Long Missing Postmistress at Hatfield Has Been Found.

Evansville, Ind., Jan. 9.—Miss Mary Lulu Scott, former postmistress at Hatfield, Spencer county, who has been missing since Oct. 14, has been found at the Crittenden home in this city. She will not be able to leave the institution for some time.

It is said Miss Scott was short in her accounts at the time she left Hatfield and the postoffice department has demanded a settlement from her bondsmen.

Held Up and Robbed Merchant.
Logansport, Ind., Jan. 9.—A masked man entered the store of George Westerman, held up the proprietor and rifled the cash drawer. The police believe the man is one of the two who shot and killed Wade Robinson, the Landeville storekeeper. The description given by Westerman tallies with that of the man who did the shooting.

Attendance Almost Doubled.
Lafayette, Ind., Jan. 9.—With nearly 2,000 Indiana farmers and their wives in attendance, the Purdue short course has begun its sessions. The attendance is almost double that of any former year. The registration of students shows that nearly every county in the state has contributed to the crowd.

Salem Store Destroyed.
Salem, Ind., Jan. 9.—The general store of Frank Brown was destroyed by fire of unknown origin. Loss $3,000.

Used Coal Oil to Start Fire.
Laporte, Ind., Jan. 9.—John Hand was burned to death while attempting to start a fire with kerosene.

WILLIAM C. HOOK
Kansas Jurist Who Will Succeed Harlan on the Supreme Bench.

TO SUCCEED HARLAN

Judge William C. Hook of Kansas to Go to Supreme Bench.

Washington, Jan. 9.—Mr. Taft has decided to appoint Judge William C. Hook associate justice of the supreme court, to succeed the late Justice Harlan.

Judge Hook is now judge of the United States circuit court of appeals of the Eighth circuit and lives at Leavenworth, Kan.

The president has considered the protests sent in and does not regard them as affording any good reason why Judge Hook should not be appointed.

HARMONY KEYNOTE OF DEMOCRATIC BANQUET

No Old Feuds Were Rubbed Up to Look Like New.

Washington, Jan. 9.—Last night when the two met at the big Jackson day dinner which Democrats all over the country have been looking forward to for a long while, if there were any hard feelings between W. J. Bryan and Woodrow Wilson as a result of the publication of the latter's letter written to a friend in 1905, expressing a desire to knock the "Peerless Leader" into a cocked hat, there was no evidence of it. When Mr. Bryan entered the banquet hall amid a lively round of applause, all the other guests were at their places, and the Nebraskan went down the line shaking hands with everyone. When he came to Governor Wilson he put out his hand and the two exchanged what appeared to be a very cordial grip. After Mr. Bryan had completed the rounds he returned to Mr. Wilson's side and for fifteen minutes, before the 750 terrified and optimistic Democrats took their seats, he and the New Jersey aspirant had their heads together in a confidential and seemingly harmonious chat.

A guest in the rear of the hall noted the two and cried at the top of his lungs, "There's close harmony for you."

The remark caught the crowd and there was an outburst of applause and cheers for Bryan and Wilson. It has been a long time since any aggregation of Democrats had such a splendid opportunity to make a noise in honor of the big men of their party.

The speechmaking did not begin until long after 10 o'clock. The meeting fairly dripped harmony. There were no startling contributions to contemporary political history, no personal grievances were aired, and no old feuds rubbed up to look like new. It is true that Senator Kern and Mr. Hearst added considerable to the gaiety of the evening by participating in that now popular amusement of jumping up and down on Colonel Roosevelt. But this appeared to be so thoroughly in accord with the spirit of the evening that their remarks along this line were most enthusiastically received.

Mr. Bryan's remarks were pacific. In fact, he, in common with the rest, seemed to go out of his way to dodge any chance of starting a controversy or an argument or stepping on anybody's toes, or of giving offense to any faction of the party. He was down to speak on "The Passing of Plutocracy."

IN VOGUE

Fur trims the collars, cuffs and sometimes the entire outline of the new evening coats.

Large collars are cut in odd shapes. Some are of lace, some of fur, and others of the most gorgeously beaded tissues.

Fur appears boldly on hats—odds and ends of the peltries that go to make up muffs and scarfs—and worn to match.

There is a craze for the silk ribbon and coarse thread roses that grow every day more important in the decorative field.

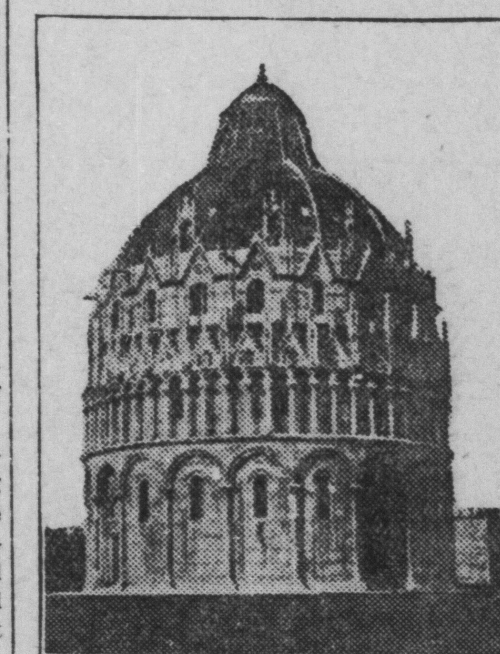

Prominent French dressmakers are making extensive use of Cluny lace to trim gowns of satin, fancy crepes and chiffon.

Buttons—huge and themselves of fur—distinguish many of the season's small as well as large furs, and nearly every other scarf is buttoned.

Among the special points observed in many of the new blouses are the long sleeves and the armholes and the frequently higher collars.

Some lovely evening wraps are shown in chiffon velvet. The wide band of embroidery or heavy lace is now at the knees and not the lower edge.

MARBLE BAPTISTERY OF PISA

Among the architectural glories of Pisa which are grouped about the Piazza del Duomo is the circular marble baptistery which stands before the famous cathedral. It is adorned with numerous columns and its dome rises to a height of nearly 200 feet and possesses a remarkable echo. The baptistery dates from the middle of the twelfth century.

BEES' SENSE OF DIRECTION

The directive sense possessed by bees is the object of research made by M. Gaston Bonner of Paris, and he seems to have proved that bees possess a special sense like carrier pigeons. Experiments showed that bees can fly two miles to their hives even when deprived of the organs of sight.

and smell. Many scientists and among others Daden, have always declared that bees are guided by the sense of smell, and that they can smell flowers at one and a half miles. Bonner's experiments proved that bees detect odors at only short distances.

Novel Bazar Idea.

This bazar scheme was carried out with great success and was no more difficult than just having plain booths in the ordinary way. The posters said: "Come and See the Seven Ages of Woman." At the first table the "First Age" was cleverly represented by having all the articles pertaining to babies, even "Baby" books, which a book store sent on commission. The attendants were dressed as infants and were most fetching, I assure you. The second table illustrated "Childhood" and had dolls and toys galore, with those behind the booth dressed as children aged from "five to ten." "The Sweethearts' Table" came next, with all sorts of dainty articles for engagement presents, heart and slipper-shaped place cards, candy and all sorts of goodies packed attractively to go as gifts to college girls and sweethearts. As it happened two engaged couples had charge of this department and it created loads of fun. The fourth was the "Bride's Table," done in pure white, with artificial orange blossoms and white roses for decorations. Those in charge were two brides. Orders were taken for marking linen. The "Mother's Table" came as the "Fifth Age" and was presided over by matrons. Cakes and pies were for sale, also darning and laundry bags, broom bags, etc. The "Spinster's Table" was conducted by a merry bunch of unappropriated blessings. They had the tea table and had a beautiful Angora cat with her kittens; the latter were for sale. Needless to say they went like "hot cakes." The "Grandmother's Table" made the seventh and was attended by three dear old ladies of the parish who had truly grown old gracefully. They had woolen shawls, bedroom slippers, spectacle cases and chamois eyeglass wipers, covers for hot water bags and many other comforts.

Germs Spread in Skin

Eczema, Psoriasis and other skin troubles are caused by myriads of germs at work in the skin. Unless these germs are promptly destroyed they rapidly multiply, gnawing their way deep into the sensitive tissue. This is what causes that awful itch and what seemed a mere rash may grow worse and develop into a loathsome and torturing skin disease with its years of misery. Don't take any chances! Destroy the germs at the beginning of the trouble with that soothing and cleansing wash, the D. D. D. Prescription for Eczema. A 25c bottle will prove this to you. It will help you.

Bosses in Control.

(New Castle Courier.)

When Governor Marshall, in an interview following the election of Kobly as chairman of the Democratic state committee, remarked, "I feel as if I haven't very much influence with this administration," he uttered a plain, unvarnished truth.

Yet it is all his own fault. At any time since the last Democratic state convention, when the Taggart machine was unceremoniously sent to the scrap pile, Marshall has had it in his power to dictate the chairmanship and reorganize the party, but has lacked the courage and the political ability.

When Tom Taggart, in Washington several months ago, announced his adhesion to the Marshall boom for the presidential nomination, then and there was opened the game for control of the party organization by the old bosses, Crawford Fairbanks, Tom Taggart and Joe Bell, and which the result shows has been skillfully played to a finish. By constantly flirting with Marshall in order to make him believe that, no matter what the reports, the schemers were for him for president, he was kept from actively interfering with their plans, which have culminated in victory for the bosses.

Never before in all its history has the Democratic organization of Indiana been held so tightly in the clutches of a domineering few as it is today.

As the campaign of 1912 advances the rank and file will be made to more fully understand who is boss and what they are expected to do. No man not a truckler to Taggart need aspire to political honors, for none but his benchmen will be put on guard.

Have you shown the same loyalty toward your friends as you would wish them to have shown toward you? Have you wavered in your loyalty because of some unkind criticism directed at some man who has been your friend? If you have you are a coward and not worthy of the confidence of any person. If you are holding an opinion of trust you should be placed under a good and sufficient bond. Turn over a new page and be a real man, not a simpering, weak, weather vane—a Uriah Heep.

Forty-eight thousand quarts of champagne were absorbed in 35 Chicago hotels New Year's eve. Those that attended the Christian Endeavor society that night did more work next day.

After encountering the chilly atmosphere of the dining rooms, the non-tipping commercial travellers must be reminded of one of their winter trips up in Manitoba.

Now it appears that Morse won $2,000 while speculating in Atlanta jail. If he were given a free hand, no doubt the government could get all the jail expenses paid.

As the woman suffrage movement is spreading rapidly, it would be well to have all school boys instructed in sewing on buttons and darning stockings.

Many single men will feel better about leap year on learning that they are permitted to decline on presenting the proposer with a new silk gown.

As paint costs high and a lot will be required, Mr. Taft will have to pay roundly for that portrait he has been having done recently.

In view of the superfluity of invitations showered upon eligible young men, it looks as if every year'd be leap year by and by.

We can't tell whether we shall need any more wood or coal this winter until we hear from the ground-hog February 2.

Editorialettes.

The weather, that is, so to speak, amongst us, is decidedly Democratic. That doesn't help the situation any, however?

Sixteen below. Would that chill you?

We made a solemn promise once to the half dozen faithful adherents we would refrain from mentioning the weather, but the temptation is too great. It comes once in ten years, yo' know.

We have made up our mind also not to give the ground hog any publicity. He's due to arrive February second, and then our doom will be known.

Some of our enemies are, perhaps, disappointed because we have not manufactured any puns on the name of President Sun of China. But as 8,874 paragraphs have done so, we feel that all the requirements of the situation have been well met.

Thanks to the plea that went up from the Palladium of the People, we are in receipt of several calendars. Little difference is noted between the 1911 and the 1912 models. The latest ones show only four out of the twelve months with five pay days in them.

"Azro Bean, address, Connorsville, Indiana." He also might consider applying a new name like Carl Morris. They call him "Kidney" for short, 'tis said.

We lamp that Frederick M. Ice of Henry county is dead. If this weather is fatal to Ice what do you imagine it will do to common mortals.

And there ought to be some sort of a cheap pun about melting but we will refrain this time.

Please chalk up one to our credit for that.

CARL MORRIS HAS TROUBLE OVER HIS PUGILIST DOUBLE

of no little note. He is a nephew of Margaret Reed, a grand opera star, who was popular both in this country and abroad. He is employed regularly as a soloist at the Central Presbyterian church, in Fifty-seventh street, and has won distinction in public and private concerts. He is also a soloist for the People's Symphony Concerts.

Several weeks ago Mr. Morris was almost driven to despair by a heavy mysterious mail he began to receive. He suffered in silence for several days, absolutely perplexed. Who wouldn't be if one were a baritone soloist and received such a letter as this:

"Dear Carl:—If you don't kill that fellow Kennedy you are an awful dub, and I never want you to speak to me again. The gang is going to lay for you if you fail to deliver the goods. A word to the wise, etc., you know. Yours, SAM."

Then there was another letter. "You are not taking the proper training," it ran, "and if you don't change soon you haven't a ghost of a show. You will never make good with the top notchers unless you take off some flesh. You need more road work; it will take that truck horse gait out of your system."

Scores of letters, dealing with a hundred subjects, he received, and not one of them conveyed to him the least inkling of what the writer was raving about. Part of his daily routine included a trip to the post-office with a package of letters that were as Greek to him.

And that wasn't all. The worst came when telephone messages began to pour in on him last week, at all hours of the day and night, especially night. He was roused from his slumber so often that it threatened to interfere with his work, and certainly did develop a temper he did not know he possessed. The situation became so acute that Mr. Morris was obliged to discontinue his telephone on Wednesday. But he renewed it the following day, when everything was explained, if not forgiven.

The explanation came when several small boys in the neighborhood, with whom Mr. Morris had a bowing acquaintance, waited on him in a body and made requests for "tickets to the fight." It was then for the first time, that Mr. Morris knew that he had been taken for a prize fighter all the while. He understood then why he had been asked to endorse numerous articles and liquids, and why ambitious young men had written him for a "try out."

With all haste possible, Mr. Morris set about to meet his namesake. Out of loyalty to the name he went that night to witness the first prize fight of his life. He found himself cheering Mr. Morris, the fighter, like a regular "fan." At the end of the fight he was so hoarse that he had to cancel an engagement to sing the following afternoon.

With a crowd of admirers, he hastened to the dressing room of Mr. Morris, the victor of the mill, and pressed forward to shake his hand. The other Mr. Morris had heard of him through the post office employes, and he extended a warm greeting. The result is that the two men have become well acquainted and have planned to meet each other often. The real "white hope" is going to church to hear his namesake "take a fall" out of a few high notes, and Mr. Morris, the singer, has been converted into a confirmed fight follower—that is, when Mr. Morris is one of the principals. There are only two Carl Morris in the city, and they are proud of it. But, for a' that, Mr. Morris the singer would like to change his name to avoid the exasperating confusion were it not that he considers it a professional asset.

MEET TOMORROW.

The Daughters of Rebekah will hold a district meeting in Knights-town tomorrow. District Deputy Grand Master Charles Fattie of Midletown will preside, and Grand Secretary W. H. Leedy of Indianapolis will be one of the speakers. A degree staff from the New Castle lodge will present the work and will be assisted by the Knights-town staff. A six o'clock dinner will be served.

ALLEGED ROBBER IS OUT ON BOND

Cordia Martin of Greenfield, Charged With Cracking New Palestine Bank Safe, is Released.

FATHER SIGNS $800 SURETY

After spending nearly eighteen months in jail, Cordia Martin has been released from the Hancock county jail under bonds of $500 signed by his father and D. C. Gannon.

Martin was arrested as a suspect in a robbery case in Greenfield two years ago and escaped from jail before the grand jury had acted on his case. He was captured and taken back to jail, but the grand jury failed to indict him and he was released. He was arrested in connection with the robbery of the New Palestine bank a few days later and tried and found guilty in the Marion circuit court. The supreme court held that the trial was illegal as the offense occurred in Hancock county, and Martin was taken from the State prison to Greenfield to await a second trial. He was indicted by a grand jury and entered a plea of not guilty to the indictment.

MAY RAISE PRICE BUTTER AND EGGS

Feared Cold Weather Will Cause "Luxuries" to Scar as They Never Did Before.

IT APPEARS INEVITABLE NOW

The cold snap of the last few days will without a doubt bring up the price of butter and eggs, which have been on the decline for the last two weeks from forty cents for eggs to thirty cents, and from forty cents for butter to twenty-eight cents. Local grocers were today paying twenty-five cents for eggs and twenty-three cents for butter, which has been the prevailing price for several days on hen fruit, with a two cent raise on first class butter. However, continued cold weather will result in an advance on both these commodities.

DRUNK "FLOATED."

Roy Harris was arraigned this morning before Mayor Black and plead guilty to the charge of public intoxication. On condition that he leave the city, Harris was released. He was arrested late yesterday afternoon by Policeman Walters and Chief McAllister.

ROSA GOTSCHALL DIES.

The funeral services of Mrs. Rosa Gotschall, who died at her home in Dunreith Saturday, was held at the Friends church in Dunreith yesterday afternoon conducted by the Rev. Thomas E. Jones of Earlham College. Her husband, Gurney Gotschall, died seven years ago. Three children survive her.

AMUSEMENTS

The Princess will have the usual change of program tonight, showing as the first picture, a Vitagraph, entitled "Arbutus." It is said to be a very good picture, telling a clever story. "Old Billy" is a Selig picture telling a story of an old fire horse. Tomorrow the big Selig special attraction, "Lost in the Jungle" will be shown.

No single effort in the world of art has within the past century stirred the amusement loving circles more profoundly than the reproduction in moving pictures of Dante's "Inferno." This will be the attraction at the Portola Thursday and Friday nights. The film will appeal to all and no one can fail to derive both entertainment and instruction from this magnificent work. As a special attraction tomorrow night George Schmidt of Detroit, Mich., will give a musical program. Mr. Schmidt is well known here from previous engagements and the program should prove a popular attraction. Tonight the program includes a western film, "Western Hearts" and a Lubin comedy, "Aunt Jane's Legacy."

BAD VENTILATION; TOO MUCH FOOD

These Are The Two Things That Contribute Chiefly to Pulmonary Winter Disease.

JUST LITTLE CARE NEEDED

Precaution Will go Farther to Avert Attack Than All Drugs And Stimulants.

A doggerel rhyme, appearing in a well-known magazine not long ago, was entitled "Pulmonary February." The verse itself described, in light vein, the grand category of coughs, colds and similar and more serious ailments which visit dwellers in this zone during the latter half of winter. It is believed that "pulmonary" is as applicable to January as to February, and also that some general, though commonplace rules, which have been covered from the long experience of physicians, may be of aid to those who will follow them in warding off the dread advances of the pulmonary diseases which reap such dreadful harvests every year.

In the first place, it is a fact well known to physicians, and indeed to all careful persons, who undertakes to fortify his system against la grippe, pneumonia, bronchitis or common colds by the promiscuous use of any sort of drugs is making a dangerous mistake. Rich, red blood, unlogged by stimulants is the best defense against disease. And the question of how to fill ones veins with this important fluid leads directly to the matter of diet and air.

According to the best physicians two things conduce more than all others to common cold—bronchitis and pneumonia—bad ventilation and overeating. A stomach, overloaded with food, is almost certain to get more or less out of order and to disil into the system certain poisonous substances which lowers its defensive power, somewhat as thick mud in a stream would lessen its efficiency in driving a mill wheel. Bad air produces a similar effect and the two in combination make a fertile field for the germs of pulmonary ailments to do their work of death.

"Eat moderately, let the fresh air in, keep up your courage and wear a smile" is the advice of a prominent local physician, and it is believed to be more valuable in a general way, than a carload of medicine.

CHAPTER XXIV.

The night fell clear as crystal and wonderfully bright with stars; the wind went down with the sun, then rose again refreshed and waxed to half a gale. At midnight O'Rourke, leaving the bridge, left the Ranees driving steadily through a racing sea, through a world noisy with the crisp rattle and crash of breaking crests.

Fortifying himself with strong coffee, the adventurer settled himself in a chair by the foot of the companionway steps leading up from the tiny saloon that served as dining-room for all but the crew of the tramp. From this position he commanded both entrances, port and starboard, from the upper deck, as well as the doors that flanked them on either hand, to the quarters occupied by Mrs. Pryne and to Dravos' stateroom, which was empty and would be so until the next change of watch.

The succeeding hours dragged interminably, quiet and uneventful.

About six bells the moon got up, and its rays, filtering through the heavy-ribbed glass of the skylight, filled the saloon with an opalescent shimmer that asserted inconspicuously with the dull glow of the electric bulbs—dull, because there was something wrong with the dynamo, according to Dravos.

O'Rourke, weary and yawning, watched the milky rainbow dance upon the half-opaque glass overhead for several moments before it conveyed to him a warning. Then immediately he abandoned his seat and stretched himself out upon a transom against the after bulkhead, whence he could see something less of the upper gangway, but sufficient for his purposes. For his chair had been beneath the skylight, and the wings of that were open for ventilation.

"Tis safer here," he considered "There'll be no dropping one of those long knives on me now, be premeditated inadvertence, I'm thinking."

He gaped tremendously. The peace of the night, the singing of the waves against the Ranees' sides, the deep throb and unbroken surge of her engines, and the sustained, clear note of the monsoon in her wire rigging—these combined with physical fatigue to soothe the man, to lull him into fantastic borderland of dreams. Yet such was his command of self that he would not yield to the caressing touch of drowsiness, but merely lay motion less and at rest, communing with his fancy. And that led him out of the sordid saloon of the Ranees across the seas that lay ahead of that ship's prow, to the fair land whither he was to convey the Pool of Flame.

Abruptly he leapt to his feet, wide awake and raging.

A blow was still sounding through the saloon a dull crash. Buried half way to the aft in the bulkhead back of the transom a knife quivered. Instinctively the wanderer's fingers had closed upon the grip of his revolver. He pulled the trigger almost before he realized what had happened and sent a bullet winging toward a spot on the gangway above where a pair of long brown legs had been but now were not. On the heels of that fruitless shot he sent another, this time with no murderous intent, but to warn the captain on the bridge. Here at last was an issue forced, animus proven, assassination indisputably attempted.

He sprang for the companionway, was half way up it in a thought, his heart hot within him, mouth dry with thirst for that lascars' blood. Not a third time should the man escape his judgment at the hands of O'Rourke, he swore.

A stentorian roar saluted him as he gained the deck—a bellow choked and ending in a sickening gurgle. O'Rourke in a flash swung on his heel. Simultaneously he came face to face with quick. He could have cried aloud in pity.

The captain swayed before him, a massively built figure clothed all in white, huge arms trembling towards his head, revolver dropping from a nerveless hand, his chin fallen forward on his chest, a stupid, weary smile on his face, and a dark and hideous smear spreading swiftly over the bosom of his shirt.

A cry of horror, despair and rage stuck in the wanderer's throat. Quick, who had hailed his appearance on the Ranees at Aden as a harbinger of good luck, had been foully murdered. His dominant emotion of the moment, an intense and pitiful solicitude for the dying man, threw him off his guard. Under its influence he forgot the desperate case of which this tragedy brought all aboard the Ranees, put out his arms, received the falling body, and let it gently to the deck.

But in a trice he was alive again to his own peril. In the twinkling of an eye he saw a flash of light gliding towards him with resistless impetus.

Scene From Dante's "Inferno"

One of the greatest accomplishments of the moving picture world to date is the "Inferno" of Dante. The scenes of this famous production are in five reels and each is a masterpiece of art. The work on the pictures was done in Milano, Italy, through the co-operation of a number of famous artists. The pictures will be shown at the Portola theater on Thursday and Friday nights.

intuitively he swung to one side, to the right, and leapt to his feet. At that the knife, a kris sinuous and keen, ran cold upon the flesh of his chest, slit through his shirt, caught in the thong that held the Pool of Flame, and tore out, leaving a flapping hole and scraping a hand's breadth of skin from his forearm. Heedless of this, only in fact subconsciously aware that the chamol bag had fallen to the deck, he caught at the hand that had wielded the kris; his fingers closed about the wrist, and, bracing himself, he swung the assassin off his feet. So doing, his fingers slipped on the man's greasy skin and he stumbled off his balance.

His object, however, had been accomplished. The murderer, hurled a yard or more through the air, fell and slid along the deck into a group of lascars, one of whom, like a nine-pin, was knocked over and fell atop of him.

O'Rourke recovered and stepped forward, revolver poised to administer the quietus to the murderer—an amiable intention which was, however, doomed to frustration. With almost inconceivable swiftness the group of lascars had become a mere tangle of arms and legs, a melange of struggling limbs and bodies. Where he had thought to find a single prostrate form, there were six struggling in confusion on the deck.

For a thought he stayed his finger on the trigger, waiting to pick out the undermost and slay him first of all, unwilling, furthermore, to waste one of the four invaluable cartridges remaining in his revolver. And then—unexpectedly the tragedy seemed over and done with altogether.

From the bottom of the heap of bodies a terrible cry of mortal anguish shrilled loud; and almost at once the mob seemed to resolve into its original elements. Five lascars crawled, arose, or flung themselves away from the sixth, who lay inert, prone, limbs still twitching, a knife buried in his back.

For a thought the tableau held, there in the pure brilliance of the moonlight; the half a dozen standing figures, O'Rourke a space apart from the rest, and two bodies, the one face down, Quick with a face to the stars, each with its dread background; a black stain that grew and spread slowly upon the white, dazzling planks.

Quietly the tallest of the lascars moved forward, knelt and drew the knife from the back of his dead fellow. He straightened up, facing O'Rourke without a tremor, his eyes afire, and wiped the blade of the kris on his cummerbund.

"Do not shoot, sahib," he said smoothly in excellent English. "Do not shoot, sahib, for it is I who have avenged. This dog," and with his toe he stirred the thing at his feet, "ran amok. Now he is dead."

This was the serang who spoke. O'Rourke eyed him coldly through a prolonged silence. At length, "That seems quite evident," he admitted coolly. "Pick up that body and throw it overboard!" he commanded sharply.

In obedience to a sign from the serang, two of the lascars seized the body. A subsequent splash overside told the Irishman that his order had been carried out. But he heard it abstractedly, confounded as he was with a problem whose difficulty was not to be underestimated, the problem embodied in the statuesque, imperturbable serang.

It was hard to know what to do, what to believe, what action to take. If he were right in his surmise, the serang should rightly be shot down instantly, without an instant's respite. Yet the heartless brutality upon which his theory was based made him hesitate. It was difficult to believe that the serang had been able to accomplish what O'Rourke was inclined to credit him with; that he, the wielder of the kris, the murderer of Quick, thrown off his feet by the Irishman's attack, had deliberately involved his fellows with him in his fall and profited by the confusion to slay one upon whom he could throw the blame for all that had happened.

The weapon quivered in O'Rourke's grasp. More than once in that brief debate he was tempted to shoot the fellow on suspicion. Yet he held his hand; he could not be positive. With every circumstance against him, he might still be telling the truth. The whole horrible affair might boil down to nothing more than an insane crime of a crazy Malay, one who, as the serang claimed, had "run amok."

He had not made up his mind when his thoughts were given a new turn by a new complication, in the shape of Mrs. Pryne herself. That lady came up the companion steps with no apparent hesitation, no fear or apprehension; quietly and confidently alert, on the other hand, she was visibly armed and prepared against danger in whatever form she might have to encounter it.

She came directly to the adventurer, without so much as a glance for the group of lascars or the grim evidences of tragedy upon the deck. O'Rourke shut his teeth with exasperation. Whatever he decided to believe of the serang, whether his judgment said of the man, "Guilty," or "Not Guilty," he dared risk nothing with the woman present. He could not tell what hell of murder and mutiny he might not let loose upon the Ranees, did he make one ill-advised or hasty move. Alone, he could have faced the situation with equanimity; with the woman by his side, he felt as though handcuffed.

"You are hurt, Colonel O'Rourke?" "A mere scratch, madam—an inch of skin shaved off me arm. Be good enough to return to the saloon, waken Danny and send him to me."

She ignored the curtness of his tone, even as she ignored his wish. "What has happened?" she demanded, ranging herself by his side. "Who is that—there on the deck?" Her voice rising a note, foreboded hysteria. "Quick—stabbed. I didn't want you to see. A lascars ran amok, cut down the captain, was killed himself—kindness," the irrepressible humorist broke out, "of our little brown brother, the serang."

His eyes never left the latter; not an instant did he take his attention from the cluster of dark figures; he was more than every ready to defend himself should they make any overt move, deeming his attention distracted.

"What will you do?" "How can I say? Do ye, for the love of God, get below and leave me to deal with these fiends in me own fashion."

"Which," she returned equably, "is precisely what I shall not do." "If that's the case," he said brusquely, "have the kindness to hand me the revolver by the captain's side, and—ye might see if the poor fellow still lives."

He heard a quick rustle of skirts and the woman's hand closed over his, pressing into his palm the weapon he had desired. As promptly, without further words, she turned to Quick.

The adventurer deliberated briefly, while she bent over the captain, making a hurried examination. "He is badly wounded," O'Rourke heard her say, as he arrived at his decision, "but not dead."

"Praise God for that! . . . I must ask ye, madam, to back me up. It is necessary to clear the decks. Are ye ready?" He saw, out of the tail of his eye, that she had sprung to her feet. "Now, ye curs," he thundered, with a menacing pistol in either hand, "get forward, the lot of ye. Move, ye blackguards!"

They went expeditiously, crowding between the deck-house and the rail, huddling together as if for mutual protection. The serang was the last to move, and went reluctantly, or seemed to.

Yet that was no time to judge him for a minor fault. O'Rourke herded the pack before him, watched them scramble down the ladder to the fore-deck, then backed to the spot where the woman stood above the captain. His arm was painless him somewhat, with the irritating, stinging ache that such wounds produce, and he thrust one revolver into his pocket, clasping a hand above the hurt.

In a flash realization of his loss came to him; he clutched the rail with a cry. The Pool of Flame, his sacred trust, was gone! His eyes searched the deck wildly, but found no trace of the round leather bag with its precious burden. Despair gripped his heart in a clutch of ice, and for a space the ship reeled about him.

He found himself gazing blankly into the woman's solicitous eyes. "What is it? What is it?" he heard her voice repeating breathlessly. He knew that his own lips moved for some seconds without sound as he strove to answer her. The words, when they came, should have been quite unintelligible to her; he realized this almost as soon as he had uttered them: "The Pool of Flame!"

Charles Durham, Lovington, Ill., has succeeded in finding a positive cure for bed wetting. "My little boy wet the bed every night clear through on the floor. I tried several kinds of kidney medicine and I was in the drug store looking for something to help him when I heard of Foley Kidney Pills. After he had taken them two days we could see a change and when he had taken two thirds of a bottle he was cured. That is about six weeks ago and he has not wet the bed since." F. B. Johnson & Co.

BANISH THOSE GRAY HAIRS!

Kill the Dandruff Germs—Stop Hair Falling

Thousands of mothers are looking younger.—Their gray hairs are gone. The natural color has come back, and with it a new growth of soft, glossy, luxuriant hair. Why should you look old before your time, when you can look years younger by using

WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR REMEDY

Dandruff Cured

Three applications removed all the dandruff and left my scalp clean, white and smooth.
Wm. Croak, Rochester, N. Y.

It is Positively Guaranteed to Restore Faded and Gray Hair to Natural Color

If other "so-called" Restorers have failed, don't give up hope, but give WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR REMEDY a trial. You run no risk. If it is not exactly as represented, your money will be refunded.

PROFIT BY OTHERS' EXPERIENCE

Gray Hair Restored

My hair was getting quite gray and falling out rapidly and I was troubled with a terrible itching of the scalp. My head was full of dandruff, which fell upon my clothes and kept me continually brushing it off. While on a visit to Rochester I heard of your Sage and Sulphur for the hair. I got a bottle and used it. A few applications relieved the itching, my hair stopped falling out and gradually came back to its natural color. It is now a nice dark brown color, soft, glossy and pliable. Several of my friends want to use it, and I want to know what you will charge me for six bottles of it.

MISS E. A. ROSS,
Sharon, Mercer Co., Pa.

Grew Hair on a Bald Head

For two or three years my hair had been falling out and getting quite thin until the top of my head was entirely bald. About four months ago I commenced using Sage and Sulphur. The first bottle seemed to do some good and I kept using it regularly until now I have used four bottles. The whole top of my head is fairly covered and keeps coming in thicker. I shall keep on using it a while longer, as I notice a constant improvement.

BRYAN FORCED LOSING ISSUE

Overwhelmingly Defeated in Two Test Cases.

BOLTED DOCTRINE OF PARTY

Action of State Committees in Alabama and Pennsylvania, Based Upon Ruling of Last National Convention, Was Disputed by Colonel Bryan, Who in Both Instances is Snowed Under by National Committee.

Washington, Jan. 9.—Colonel William Jennings Bryan has lost control of the Democratic national committee. He was overwhelmingly defeated in two test cases, forced by himself, one in Alabama and one in Pennsylvania. In both cases Bryan bolted the cardinal doctrine of his party incorporated into its government by himself in the Democratic national convention of 1908. At that convention Bryan, although distant at his home in Lincoln, commanded his friends in the Denver convention to adopt a resolution by which Democratic state committees were given authority to fill vacancies in the national committee. The convention adopted that resolution almost unanimously. It has been the Democratic party government for nearly four years.

Bryan's friends urged him not to enter the national committee and oppose his own resolution adopted by the national convention four years ago. The advice given to Bryan was that his act would place him in an undignified position before the committee, that he would be clearly in the wrong and that the committee would have no other course but to defeat him. Bryan would not listen to the advice of his friends. He was personally very angry at Guffey. He had the proxy of P. L. Hall of Lincoln, and he declared after consideration that he intended to use it, and he did.

All the states and territories were represented when the committee was called to order by Chairman Norman E. Mack. Beside Chairman Mack on the rostrum was Secretary Urey Woodson and Assistant Secretary Edward C. Sefton. Chairman Mack opened the proceedings by expressing the confident hope that the committee would act with wisdom and nothing would be done to "mar our prospects of success at the polls next November."

Harmony was up in the air the instant Assistant Secretary Sefton called the roll of states and territories. Alabama meant that Bryan was to fight at the drop of the hat. The name of James Weatherly was read as committeeman for the state. Colonel Bryan was instantly on his feet, protesting against Weatherly's name being read, saying:

"Are we to understand that this body is prepared to rule that we must take anyone certified to us by a state committee?"

Chairman Mack declared that acting under instructions of the last Democratic national convention, vacancies must be so filled. He was supported in his contention by other committeemen, who insisted that the rule of the national convention must be carried out. Chairman Mack so decided and Colonel Bryan appealed from the decision of the chair.

Immediately it was decided that the convention should go into executive session. It was then disclosed that Colonel Bryan did not care so much as to the Alabama case, but he was paying the way for his fight against Guffey when Pennsylvania was reached on the roll call. It was pointed out to Mr. Bryan in the executive session that the Alabama case was identical with that of the Pennsylvania, but Bryan would not have it so, and there was nothing to do but take a vote on Bryan's point of order against Mack, and Bryan was defeated by the vote of 34 to 13.

In due time on the roll call Pennsylvania was reached and the fight developed extreme bitterness, led by Colonel Bryan. Representative Palmer spoke for his own election as national committeeman and he was supported by C. H. Williams, national committeeman for Mississippi, brother of Senator John Sharp Williams, and by Bryan, at one time Colonel Guffey becoming so angry that he shouted "You are a liar" at Palmer, whereupon Chairman Mack came down heavy with his gavel and the committee directed that Guffey must personally apologize to Palmer and must also apologize to the committee for the language he had used. Guffey thereupon formally apologized. Colonel Bryan made a direct personal attack on Colonel Guffey. He told how the national convention had unseated Guffey four years ago and declared that Guffey had not been loyal to the candidate of his party for president. Colonel Bryan closed by making a personal appeal to the committee to sustain him in his contention that Colonel Guffey was not a representative Democrat and should not be national committeeman from the Keystone state. When the vote came Guffey was sustained by 30 to 18. The states that voted with Bryan were Alabama, Colorado, Delaware, Iowa, Louisiana, Mississippi, Nebraska, New Jersey, North Carolina, Ohio, Oregon, South Carolina, South Dakota, Utah, Washington, Wisconsin, Wyoming and the District of Columbia.

DOCTORS ORGANIZE AGAINST DEADBEATS

Indianapolis Physicians and Dentists Combine.

Indianapolis, Jan. 9.—An association which is to be known as the Physicians and Dentists' Credit Rating and Collecting association, which will attend to collecting the accounts of all the members has been formed by several hundred physicians and dentists who have joined the movement.

"The organization is not for the purpose of boosting fees or working a hardship on our patients," says a member, "but it has been done in an effort to require those who are able to do so to meet their obligations."

It is said that along with the credit rating system for private practice steps will be taken to deny those persons who are able to pay for services the privileges of the city dispensary. The physicians say there are many people who could well afford to pay a physician who are treated at the dispensary, but under the plan they will be required to consult a physician in private practice. At the same time the dispensary practice will not be diminished because the persons who do not pay for private services and who will be known to the physicians through the credit association will be compelled to seek help at the dispensary.

The Marion Trust company has approved the plans of organization of the physicians and dentists' association, and will act in an advisory capacity to the directors and manager of the association.

RESTORE GRAY HAIR TO NATURAL COLOR

By Common Garden Sage, a Simple Remedy for Dandruff, Falling, Faded, Gray Hair.

The old idea of using sage for darkening the hair is again coming in vogue. Our grandmothers used to have dark, glossy hair at the age of seventy-five, while our mothers have white hair before they are fifty. Our grandmothers used to make a "sage tea" and apply it to their hair. The tea made their hair soft and glossy, and gradually restored the natural color.

One objection to using such a preparation was the trouble of making it, especially as it had to be made every two or three days, on account of souring quickly. This objection has been overcome, and by asking almost any first-class druggist for Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy the public can get a superior preparation of sage, with the admixture of sulphur, another valuable remedy for hair and scalp troubles. Daily use of this preparation will not only quickly restore the color of the hair, but will also stop the hair from falling out and make it grow.

Get a bottle from your druggist today. Use it and see for yourself how quickly dandruff goes and gray hairs vanish.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

HOPE FOR PEACE NOT ABANDONED

Winter Puts a Stop to Hostilities in China.

GOVERNMENT IS IMPOTENT

Not Only Are Funds Lacking With Which to Prosecute the War, but the Imperial Army is Not a Dependable Force—Meanwhile the Revolutionary Forces Are Being Well Armed and Are Drilling New Recruits.

Peking, Jan. 9.—In the belief that neither side will be anxious to force hostilities before spring, those hoping that further fighting will be averted for the present at least are building their hopes now on the winter weather. Fighting has not been resumed, although an armistice has not been renewed, but it is known that preparations are being pushed. It is reported that the rebels have bought large quantities of rifles in Japan and are mustering in and drilling recruits in all directions. In the meantime the government is not inclined to send forces south to fight the rebels. Not only are funds for the purpose lacking at present, but the portion of the imperial army which can be relied upon is so small that it is not desirable to split it up. From Shensi word comes that 10,000 rebels who lately captured Shenchow are now marching on Honanfu. It is reported that Yuan Shih Kai has ordered reinforcements to that place.

Wan Chun Wei, minister of foreign affairs in the new Chinese republic, has resigned and Wu Ting Fang, minister of justice, has been appointed to the place. Wang Chun Wei will serve as minister of justice.

CONSCIENCE HURT HIM

"Australian Mack" Must Have Some Real Big Misdeed on His Mind.

New York, Jan. 9.—John McNamara known to the police of the United States and Canada as "Australian Mack," was arrested in this city and taken to police headquarters charged with the burglary of the branch bank of Montreal in New Westminster, B. C., on Sept. 14 last. About $240,000 in negotiable notes and gold and $135,000 in notes lacking the signature of an officer of the bank to make them valid were taken. When Lieutenant Riley tapped McNamara on the shoulder at Broadway and 136th street, he immediately asked to see the warrant, and after reading it said: "Well, I'm relieved, I thought it might be something worse."

BRUTAL ATTACK

Planter's Home Attacked and Two Women Were Killed.

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 9.—Mrs. Kate Carpenter and her mother, Mrs. Davis, were killed, and M. P. Carpenter, a wealthy planter, probably was fatally injured by a band of five or six white men, who beat the women to death and left the man for dead at the Carpenter home near Blytheville, Ark., according to reports received here.

Carnegie Acknowledges Subpena.
Washington, Jan. 9.—Chairman Stanley of the steel committee admitted that Andrew Carnegie, "acting on advice of counsel," had refused to appear before the committee in response to an informal request and that it had been necessary to subpoena him. Now everything has been fixed up and Mr. Carnegie, according to a telegram received from him, will be on hand when the committee convenes at 10:30 tomorrow morning.

R. T. Crane's Sudden Death.
Chicago, Jan. 9.—R. T. Crane, whose contention that the education and training given in colleges and universities is of little or no practical value to the student, has made him a target for the heads of almost every college and university in the country, died suddenly late last night just as he had issued another attack on technical education.

Rebellion Cost Moros Dear.
San Francisco, Jan. 9.—Resistance to the government's order for their disarmament has cost the Moros the lives of nearly a thousand warriors, according to army officers arriving from the Philippines on the transport Sherman. The task of subduing the natives, they said, turned out to be more serious than the army anticipated.

Search For Missing Vessel.
Norfolk, Va., Jan. 9.—Strewn out all over the west Atlantic ocean ten battleships and cruisers are scouring the sea for the torpedo boat Mayrant, which naval officers fear may have foundered during the terrible north-west gale that swept the coast Friday and damaged half a dozen ships of the Atlantic fleet.

Whisky Blew Roof Off.
Attica, Ind., Jan. 9.—With a roar that could be heard for blocks, a barrel of whisky exploded in a fire that destroyed the saloon of Newman Russell, blowing off the roof of the building, smashing the windows and scattering burning debris in all directions.

TORTURED BY ECZEMA

Awful Itching and Burning Drives Children Frantic. Try This Remedy at Our Risk.

Eczema often comes from very trifling causes, such as disordered stomach, or the use of alkali soaps. Children's eczema can usually be traced to something of the sort.

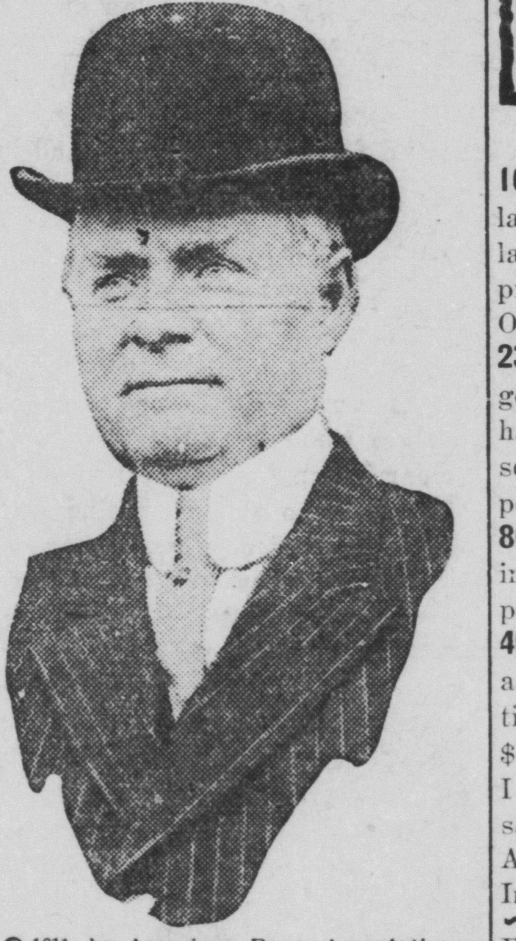

Quick relief from the fiery itching that makes one almost frantic is needed but it is still more important to cure the disease.

In our new skin remedy, Saxon Salve, we have a complete and successful treatment. Saxon Salve not only allays the itching in a few moments but penetrates the skin pores so that its healing germ-destroying action reaches the very seat of the disease. Great improvement is seen in a few days.

This is the skin remedy that we sell on a positive guaranty to give back your money if you are not satisfied with the effects you get. F. B. Johnson & Co., Rushville, Ind.

UNDERVALUATIONS IN IMPORTS OF CUTLERY

Government Asks for $5,000,000 Withheld Revenues.

Philadelphia, Jan. 9.—In the hands of the secretary of the treasury of the United States is said to be a confession by a Philadelphia cutlery importer involving the undervaluation of German cutlery by importers of this city, New York and Boston. The confession is said to have been made by a local importer who is alleged to have been a party to the undervaluations. The importer has been promised immunity from prosecution by the department of justice at Washington.

Secretary MacVeagh has been offered $1,000,000 by the importers of German cutlery in this country to effect a settlement, but it is understood that the secretary asks $5,000,000, and unless this sum is paid the United States courts will shortly begin prosecutions based on false consular invoices made out by the cutlery importers.

"Best on Earth"

This is the verdict of R. J. Howell, Tracy, O., who bought Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for his wife. "Her case was worst I have ever seen, and looked like a sure case of consumption. Her lungs were sore and she coughed almost incessantly and her voice was hoarse and weak. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound brought relief at once and less than three bottles effected a complete cure." F. B. Johnson & Co.

The Danger of LaGrippe

Is its fatal tendency to pneumonia To cure your la grippe cough take Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. R. E. Fisher, Washington, Kas., says: "I was troubled with a severe attack of la grippe that threatened pneumonia. A friend advised Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and I got relief after taking the first few doses. I took three bottles and my la grippe was cured." Get the genuine, in the yellow package. F. B. WHAT DOES NEW STATUTE MEAN?

hands and attempted to seek out the habitants of some local gambling dens.

They point out as proof for this assertion that the police made a raid on an alleged gambling den in the Commercial block last summer, confiscated a lot of bottles, tables, chairs and other paraphernalia, but as yet nothing has ever resulted from the raid. The stuff confiscated in the raid is still piled up in a corner in the mayor's office.

Some Rushville attorneys and men are led to believe the circuit court will not stand for the city mixing in in State cases where the prosecution should be rightfully conducted by the representative of the State of Indiana, the prosecuting attorney. But it's all Democratic, and if there is any warfare, it will be purely of an internal nature and will not be carried on between the two old parties.

But there are some Rushville attorneys who can see no excuse for the ordinance. In regard to the prosecution of gambling cases it is more vague and unsatisfactory, they say, than are the State statutes on this same subject.

The ordinance on the face of it seems to be a vagrancy ordinance, but it shies off into gambling cases without any cause whatever for the deviation. The ordinance says near the beginning, "it shall be and hereby is made unlawful for any person, male or female, to be found, within the jurisdiction of said city of Rushville, or in a state of vagrancy or practicing common begging." This is a vagrancy clause pure and simple.

But without ever putting a period in itself the ordinance continues, "or to frequent or visit any house, building or structure known or reputed to be a house, building or structure where gambling is permitted or carried on, and—" It continues that any persons found under such conditions and convicted of such offense as provided by the ordinance shall be fined a minimum of ten dollars or a maximum of three hundred dollars, or in addition, a jail sentence, not to exceed six months may be added.

There are some who have read the ordinance and say they can not see the necessity of such a law since the same phrase is covered in State statutes and is prosecuted in the circuit court before a judge who is elected for such purposes. And it is the duty of the prosecuting attorney to conduct such prosecutions if the arrests are made and the cases brought into court.

And again, another man says if there are "any such house, building or structure known or reputed to be a place where gambling is permitted or carried on," go and arrest the law violators who are permitting gambling to be carried on, or who are carrying it on themselves, and prosecute them under the State law, which is as ample, if not more so, than a city ordinance.

Some local men believe the city administration may be "sore" at Prosecutor O'Neil, because he had charge of the grand jury which returned an indictment against John Walters, city policeman, under a Democratic administration, for assault and battery on Marion McCann, alleged in the indictment to have been made when the policeman arrested McCann on a trivial charge. Walter's trial will come up next term.

WHAT D'YOU THINK OF THIS?

Greenfield Reporter: Greenfield has the best gas service she has ever had. While there is not as much gas being used in Greenfield as there was in the days when the pressure was stronger and the supply abundant, still persons now taking gas find that no matter whether the weather is mild or extremely cold, they have an even, steady and abundant supply of gas.

BANK OFFICIALS ELECTED TODAY

No Changes Are Noted in Personnel of Officers For Year With Two Exceptions.

IN RUSH COUNTY NATIONAL

W. E. Havens Succeeds W. A. Cullen as Vice-Pres. and Dr. J. C. Sexton is New Director.

Officers and directors were elected in all of the national banks and in the loan and trust company today, as required by a statute governing the election of officials of national financial institutions. The law says the elections shall take place some time during the second Tuesday of January.

All of the officers and directors of the banks of the city were re-elected and the same employees were retained with two exceptions. These were in the Rush County National bank. It was announced several days ago Judge W. A. Cullen had retired as vice-president. W. E. Havens, for many years a director of the bank, was elected to succeed Judge Cullen. Dr. J. C. Sexton was named to fill the place made vacant on the board of directors by the resignation of the former vice-president.

There is an exception in the case of the Farmers Trust Company which is not a national institution. New officials of this concern will be elected Tuesday, January 23. The election is governed by a different statute than those held today.

The election at the Rush County National at ten o'clock this morning was the first one of the day. Following are the officers and directors: L. Link, president; W. E. Havens, vice-president; L. M. Sexton, cashier; W. R. Spurgeon, assistant cashier; B. L. Trabue, bookkeeper, and H. C. Flint, assistant bookkeeper. The directors are: F. A. Capp, J. K. Gowdy, W. E. Havens, J. C. Sexton, T. A. Jones, Claude Cambren, Ben L. Smith and L. Link.

The following are the directors of the Peoples National bank, elected this afternoon: Jasper D. Case, Robert A. Innis, Charles A. Mauzy, Ralph Payne and Earl H. Payne. The officers elected and appointed are: Earl H. Payne, president; Charles A. Mauzy, vice-president; Ralph Payne, cashier; Carl E. Webb, assistant cashier; Miles S. Cox, bookkeeper, and Ora M. Gray, bookkeeper.

The Peoples Loan and Trust Company today held their annual election about the same time. The directors are: Jasper D. Case, Robert A. Innis, Charles A. Mauzy, Thomas H. Parry, Ernest B. Thomas, Ralph Payne and Earl H. Payne. The officers elected are Earl H. Payne, president; Charles A. Mauzy, vice-president; Ernest B. Thomas, secretary, and Ralph Payne, treasurer.

Directors and officers of the Rushville National bank elected late this afternoon are as follows: T. Abercrombie, president; Tom K. Mail, vice-president; Albert L. Winship, cashier; Henry McGuire, assistant cashier; Wilbur Stiers, second assistant; Miss Anna Bohannon, bookkeeper; directors, T. Abercrombie, A. L. Winship, T. K. Mail, T. M. Green, J. M. Amos, Joe L. Cowing and Alvan Moor.

$500 DAMAGE SUIT.

New Castle Courier: Charging that the eighteen-foot embankment built by the Pennsylvania through Raysville, had made the well on their lot useless because of the water and mud draining into it, and that the drainage from the embankment had damaged their property, Elbert and Alice Edwards have brought suit for damages in the circuit court against the railroad company. They ask a judgment of $500.

BAKE BREAD AND GET MEALS ON HARD COAL BURNERS

have walked about over the cold floor in their bare feet, yes, when the temperature right in the house was below zero, to light the gas and cook and bake.

You may all know this, if not no harm is done; it takes lots of gas to make lots of heat, the latter of which it takes to bake bread. So it is impossible to bake bread the gas as it has been the last few days. The natural conclusion is that "wifey" has to get up at midnight to bake bread if she will supply "bubby's" wants, for he does dearly love home-made bread.

But people with hard coal burners and other kinds of stoves in which coal may be burnt have had their troubles too because most of them have been depending on gas for cooking purposes. Housewives of this class come in for their share of the trouble also.

There are some women who have displayed great ingenuity in such times of trouble. One woman prepared a full dinner Sunday on her hard coal burner. She found that her family would go hungry if she depended on the gas to cook with and she just prepared the hard coal burner and cooked it par excellence.

Another woman was confronted with bread-baking difficulty. She displayed greater resourcefulness than the women who have been arising in the middle of the night. But she had another way to bake her bread and the women without the coal stoves did not. There was nothing else for them to do.

This woman in question worried along with the bread for two days. For forty-eight hours she had that dough in the oven but the heat made by the meagre supply of gas made no impression on the dough whatever. Then she suddenly resolved to revolutionize this cooking business.

She first made the proposal to her husband. He admitted he didn't think much of the idea. Think of the man who would not favor his wife's bright ideas! But she did not need the consent or assistance of her husband, not this woman, she acted on her own initiative.

Sure enough she had the right idea. She shoved Mr. Dough into the ash box, which was now minus the ash pan, and this week they are enjoying the finest home-made bread they ever had. Even the husband admits that. In fact they may bake bread in the hard coal burner the rest of the winter.

And there's "Hubby," he has a terrible time. The first thing he has to do in the morning is get up and walk down that cold, cold stairs and light the gas—if there is any. Sometimes he has to empty the ashes, and in those instances the house is not cold. That's not to the point anyway.

And he has to sweep the snow off the porch and the sidewalks and make a path around the house, that is those do who have exacting wives. And then he has to thaw out the gas meter occasionally to see if that will not make more gas in the house.

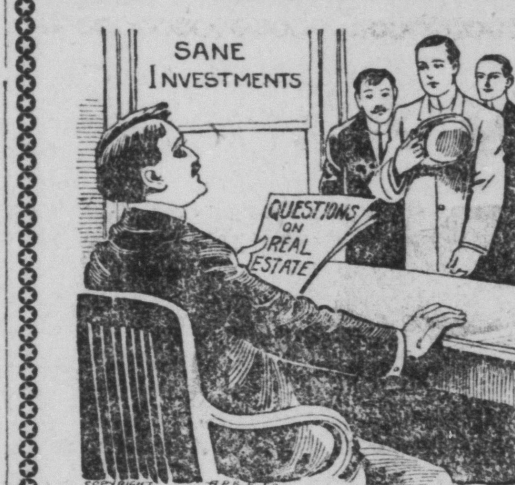

One householder telephoned down to a gas company this morning to inquire after the gas supply—he said he thought it was lost. The gas man told him to pour a little hot water on the joint in front of the meter. He asked if the front were stiff and the gas man said he didn't know, but he hardly believed it was.

But honestly, he said, paraffine might have collected in this joint, frozen and kept the gas from flowing through the pipes. Try this recipe, it said to be fine when the thermometer is down at zero and the snow is three inches thick. To make a long story short this certain man couldn't find his gas meter. Of course he was exasperated to think he hadn't located it when the weather was ninety in the shade. He swears he will never pass another summer without locating the whereabouts of his gas meter.

There's a moral to this fable—save your money next summer and fit up a coal bin.
